GERMANY IS FRIENDLY TO UNITED STATES

Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann Holweg Makes Long Speech Before Reichstag, Saying Reports of Hostility Untrue

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, via wireless, Sayville, L. I., April 5.—"Germany, neither at this time nor at any time in the future, contemplates aggression against the United States. I protest against all reports of German hostility against America." This statement was made in the Reichstag today by Dr. von Bethmann Holweg, the imperial chancellor. He added that Germany has never contemplated the acquisition of territory in any of the Americas.

German-American relations, the aims of Germany in the war and the political and military situation in Europe were discussed by the chancellor in the most comprehensive speech delivered in the Reichstag during the war. He insisted that the conflict must be fought out to a finish and that guarantees of peace in Europe must be forthcoming after this conflict is over. Amidst a great burst of applause the chancellor concluded his address with these words: "A spirit of union shall lead us and shall lead our children and grandchildren through the struggles of their fathers toward a future of strength and liberty."

He began his address with a review of the military situation and said: "Reports of the enemy that Germany's forces have been used up, are proved false by what is happening at Verdun where operations were prepared with profound foresight and where the bravery of the German troops obtained one advantage after another." He pointed out that the Allies were trying to extend the war to German women and children by starving them. Saying in this connection: "It was for this purpose that England with her allies has been violating the commercial trade of neutrals. The American note of Nov. 5 last gave an exact description of English violation of the law of nations, but so far as I know that note has never been answered. No evil-minded neutral, no matter whether he favors that, cannot doubt our right to defend ourselves against this war of starvation which is contrary to international law. We expect that our right to use all available means against this starvation policy which is 'jeering' threats not only to the laws of nations, but to humanity itself, shall be expected."

The most impressive part of his speech was his declaration that Germany does not contemplate aggression against the United States at this or any other time.

DRIVEN OUT OF POSITION

The French Make an Advance on the Verdun Front.

The war office in its official communication today, announced that the French have advanced to the German communicating trenches north of Callette wood. There has been a terrible bombardment of the German position in the Woivre district west of the Meuse. The Germans delivered infantry attacks against the French in Lorraine during the night, but all were repulsed.

HOLLAND MASSES ARMY ON HER GERMAN FRONTIER

Dutch Nation Fears That Germany May Attempt to Treat Her as Belgium Was Invaded.—No Fears Held That England Will Violate Her Neutrality.

London, April 4.—A Rome wireless message today said it had been learned from Zurich that Holland had closed the German frontier and was massing troops on the German border.

London, April 4.—Holland's military activity is explained perhaps by the statement of a former Dutch minister of war who suggests that it is fear of Germany and not the Allies that is bothering the Government. Great Britain, he thinks, will keep the faith and not violate Holland's neutrality, but whether Germany will act as she did in Belgium on the same plea—to get there first—is the problem. It would be a lucky day for the Allies if Holland should espouse their cause. Holland lies on the flank of the German armies in Belgium and in case of actual hostilities a British army might land in Holland and so threaten the German rear that Belgium would have to be evacuated. A Rome despatch announces that Holland has closed her frontiers bordering Germany and that Germany has massed a large number of troops along the boundary. The frontier between the two countries is roughly about 300 miles, from about three and a half miles west of Aft-lac, Chappelle north to the estuary of the River Rhine. If the Rome report is true either Germany fears an Anglo-Dutch attack on the Belgian flank and on Germany's frontier front, or she has in mind some plan by which she could when peace comes, evacuate Belgium and secure control for herself of the Rhine to its mouth. The first natural step if the Germans intend invasion is to seize all that part of the Dutch province of Limburg—over half—which is bounded by the River Meuse (Maas). This pocket of Holland, which bulges into Germany, has always been an offence to Teuton geography and particularly a grievance during this war as supplies from Essen and Düsseldorf have had to go far out of their way to reach Belgium. One thing which damages Germany in case she shall take military action against Holland is the cutting off the vast supplies which have reached Germany—smuggled or otherwise—over the Dutch border.

Holland Fears Germany.

Amsterdam, via London, April 4.—"I do not for a moment suggest there is a possibility that Great Britain intends to land her armies on the Dutch coast," said former Minister of War Colijn today in an interview regarding recent mysterious military preparations in Holland. "We have the assurance of Britain that she will respect our neutrality, and we rely on that assurance. But the question is, what does Germany think of this?"

"If the Germans begin seriously to be afraid of such a contingency, as the landing of British troops in Holland, what influence will that have on Germany's attitude toward us? We must assume that she is acquainted with our defensive capacity. If she judges that capacity inadequate and considers that a British irruption into Germany through Holland is to be feared, would it then be strange if we were approached from the German side with proposals to which we cannot submit because they would mean the abandonment of our neutrality toward the Allies."

"I know that against this it may be said that the British will not make a landing in Holland and that if they tried we are quite capable of stopping a British march eastward or southward. But that is not relevant. The question is not what we think but what the Germans think."

Jonkherr Colijn added that there was an increasing possibility of conflict, on both sides, and, while a waiting attitude might be adopted toward Great Britain, something positive should be done with regard to Germany. He suggested the strengthening of the Dutch forces, in order to make clear to Germany that Holland has the power and the intention to prevent a menace to Germany's open flank.

'Union' and 'Balance' Make Stable Tires

United States Tires, in more than name only, carry out the principle of 'union' and 'balance' which makes a great stable nation out of the forty-eight individual States of the Union.

United States Tires have that complete 'union' between rubber and fabric which absolutely prevents tread separation and disintegration under the tread.

They have that complete 'balance' which gives equal wear in both the tread and the carcass—neither too weak nor stronger than the other.

Every part of each tire helps every other part to last longer—and that is the 'union' and 'balance' which give the whole tire longer life—which gives the low-mileage cost for which United States Tires are famous.

There are five United States 'Balanced' Tires—a tire to meet every motoring need of price and use. Ask your dealer to show you.

OREN W. BARTLETT HAD AN ENVIABLE CIVIL WAR RECORD

RESIDENT OF PORTSMOUTH FOR THIRTY-FIVE YEARS PASSED AWAY AT HIS HOME LAST EVENING

With the death of Mr. Oren W. Bartlett at his home on Pearl street on Tuesday evening, for more than thirty-five years a resident of this city, Storers Post No. 1, G. A. R., loses another of its members. Mr. Bartlett was in his eighty-fourth year and died after a lingering illness. He was born in Newry, Oxford County, Me., Feb. 15, 1832, the son of Jonathan and Anne E. Bartlett.

When still a young man Mr. Bartlett removed to East Stoneham, Me., where he engaged in the lumber business after completing his education in the schools of that town. He had an enviable record for service in the Union ranks during the Civil War, enlisting in the 5th Maine regiment at the outbreak of the rebellion and serving with his command for two years as a sutler.

After his discharge he reenlisted on Feb. 12, 1863 in the 1st District of Columbia Cavalry, serving in this troop until Oct. 1, 1864 when he was transferred to B company, 1st Maine Cavalry. During his services as a cavalryman he took part in the battle of Fredericksburg as well as in several other important engagements. He was honorably discharged from the service Aug. 5, 1865 at Appomattox, Va.

After the war Mr. Bartlett entered into the hotel business at Stoneham, Me., continuing for several years and then returned to Stoneham, Me., and again engaged in the lumber business.

In 1880 Mr. Bartlett came to Portsmouth from the Maine town and took charge of the heel finishing department of the Portsmouth Shoe Company, a position which he held for 32 years. Since 1893 he had been much employed at the navy yard, and in 1895, when the captured Spanish prisoners of Admiral Cervera's fleet were held at Seavey's island, he was placed in charge of the paymaster's store within the stockade for 63 days, during which time he directed the distribution of $165,000 worth of clothing to the prisoners.

On Oct. 25, 1855 Mr. Bartlett married Phoebe H. Evans at North Waterford, Me., and lived to celebrate their golden wedding in this city. Mrs. Bartlett died here about three years ago.

He is a past commander of Storers Post No. 1, G. A. R., and was always active in the meetings and the plans of the post. He was a member of the Odd Fellows, and was a past noble

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of mess.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

POLICE NEWS

Auto Wins Race to the New Castle Bridge.

Four men, carrying an over abundance of joy water, gathered up last evening in this city, gave the police auto patrol a smart race for the New Castle Bridge, and lost out. They spent the remainder of the night in the cooler on Chapel street.

Shortly after 10.00 o'clock in the evening word was sent to the station by phone that four men, apparently under the influence of liquor, were "freelancing" along Pleasant street to the annoyance of the residents of the street. Officers Condon, McCaffery and Smart started out in the auto patrol to round up the gang. The men were headed for one of the forts at New Castle, but were not making as much speed as they might have under ordinary circumstances. In some manner they became aware of the fact that the police officers were burning up the road between them and the city by their rear and they put on steam.

Some were geared higher than others and the hurry-up wagon gathered them in one at a time until but one remained. Chris "stepped on her tail" and as the man was getting ready to donate three cents to the New Castle Bridge Corporation the officers took the occasion to report to him that he was under arrest. The return trip was made at a slower pace.

Five drunks and one lodger were registered on the blotter at midnight.

THOMAS MOTT OSBORNE COMES UP FOR TRIAL AGAIN

White Plains, N. Y., April 3.—Charge of perjury having been dismissed by the judge at a previous trial, Thomas Mott Osborne was put on trial here today on further indictments, alleging neglect of duty and immorality while Warden of Sing Sing Prison.

There was a large crowd of prominent persons from New York here for the trial, including many of Mr. Osborne's associates in the prison reform movement. Mr. Osborne expressed confidence in his acquittal, as he did before the first trial.

NASHUA STRIKE SETTLED

Has Lasted Six Months; Operatives Will Go to Work at Once.

Nashua, April 5.—The strike in the Nashua and Jackson mills, which began October 4 and in which more than 1500 employees held out for over six months, was settled Tuesday afternoon. A little woman, a stranger in Nashua, Mrs. Eugenia Schlenk, settled it.

Mrs. Schlenk came to Nashua less than three weeks ago, as the accredited agent of the North American Civic League and got busy. She is a Polish woman. She speaks the language of the strikers fluently, as well as English and she gained their confidence at once. Leaders in many lines had tried for months to settle the strike without success, but the little woman carried her point home to the workers.

The terms of the settlement are the same which were turned down by the strikers two weeks ago, and on which there was another conference last Saturday. The pact includes putting 300 of the strikers at work within a week and the others as soon as possible and starting up of night work in the Nashua mills to make room for the strikers. They are not to be discriminated against, although none of the employees now at work will be discharged to make room for them.

There was some question as to the strikers receiving the advance in wages which went into effect January 2 so Mrs. Schlenk went from the Mass meeting at Hamlin hall this afternoon to the mill officials to get a definite statement. It was given out that they would receive the advance. So at 4 o'clock this afternoon the strikers on a standing vote, agreed to accept the terms.

DUMA PRESIDENT PREDICTS GREAT FUTURE FOR RUSSIA

London, April 4.—Free speech and magnificent expansion after the war were predicted for Russia by M. Rodzianko, President of the Duma, in an interview with British correspondent just published here. Russia and Great Britain are now great friends, he said, and he commented in this humorous way on their former differences:

"Oh, of course, we have quarrelled! But that was natural. Even husband and wife! Well, it is not so. But that is long ago. The mistake was that we did not know, till the war came, that we were—yes, that is it, that we were necessary each to the other.

"Now we know. Those Germans have taught us. Ah, what a people! Phew! But we are good friends—England and Russia. Oh, and we shall remain so. But certainly, England and the sea, Russia and the people. We are both strong. The people make us strong. The sea, that makes us well. That is what I have thought a long time. The Russian, the Englishman, they understand one another."

"And something else. The vodka! We gave up drinking, not a drop of liquor to be sold, and when we most needed the money, the revenue, who were so poor in Russia? Yes, you like that too?"

"And it proves, yes, yes, that the liquor is not necessary to the people. The working man does his work, the soldier in the trenches, too, without the liquor. Well, that is something. Yes, it is something. People thought that the liquor made them strong. Now they know it is not the truth. Well, that is good. But come now—you tell me about England. What do they think of us?"

"Well, may I say this?" answered the correspondent.

"But, yes, of course. You may say anything," M. Rodzianko laughed heartily.

"While the whole nation admired Russian valor and the self-sacrifice of Government and nation, some of us would feel happier—I am almost afraid to say it!—if the Duma were not quite so often and quite so unintelligently dissolved."

"Ah, but you see it is the war which consumes us. We are so busy, we have no time to talk. This war—it is so immense, it is so huge, it is the whole

Public Schools and Democracy.

When learned men speak what they say is entitled to consideration, and yet not all of them are always right in their views. Otherwise there would not be so many and so pronounced differences among men.

And so when President Main of Grinnell college says, as he did a few days ago in an address to an eastern college fraternity, that the public schools are being stolen from democracy and that they are failing to turn out citizens as they should be makes a statement with which the great majority of Americans, learned and unlearned, will stoutly disagree. They agree with him perfectly when he says that democracy, in which we all believe as the fundamental idea of our government and of our religion, is not yet fully realized, but is in the process of living growth. There will be agreement with his assertion that democracy is now in a period of especial trial and stress, and every true American believes with President Main that the goal of democracy is final excellence and dominance, and that in time it will be accepted as the ruling force of the world so far as this rests in the hands of men.

The American public school system is the child of democracy, and it might also be said to be its corner stone. It does not make citizens by direct teaching of the forms and principles of government, but it develops boys and girls in such a way that they unconsciously grow into good citizens in the vast majority of cases.

President Main evidently regrets, as do many others, the necessity of ruling the Bible and certain songs out of the public schools, but it is democracy itself that renders this necessary. The American schools are filled with children who came, or whose parents came, from all parts of the world. They represent practically all races and many religions. Democracy entitles their beliefs to respect, and so it is well that there should be removed from the schools everything tending to disagreement and dissension.

The schools are not being "stolen from democracy," as President Main asserts, nor is he correct in his statement that they are failing to make Americans. That is just what they are making. They are making them out of material from every quarter of the globe, and for any element to attempt to foist its religious ideas upon another would constitute anything but democracy. The schools have their faults and shortcomings; but they are not failing in democracy and are not failing to turn out good citizens.

China swings back and forth between monarchy and republicanism with the ease, and almost the regularity, of a pendulum. But the head of the government does not change its form. When the republic recently returned to monarchy President Yuan Shi-Kai became the emperor; and now because of dissatisfaction among the people he abdicates as emperor and "resumes the presidency" with the base of a person passing a bouquet from one hand to the other. China is considered a backward nation, but it apparently has the most flexible government in the world.

It was a somewhat remarkable letter that was received by Governor Spaulding in which it was stated that a combination of natural forces would produce such a change in the axis of the earth that on March 26 this continent would be sunk in the Atlantic ocean to a depth of 5,000 feet. The letter read like the work of a lunatic or a joker, and the fact that it was unsigned would indicate that it was written by a lover of fun, though of a rather foolish sort.

Now the switchmen of numerous railroads want to be considered in connection with the movement for an eight-hour day on the railroads. And why should they not be, together with all other railroad employees? Why should those who do the hard and dirty work be ignored while favors are passed out to the men who have the best jobs?

William Jennings Bryan is for the re-nomination of President Wilson. Whether this will be an element of strength or weakness to the president remains to be seen. That he was an element of strength in the Baltimore convention no one will deny, but many things have happened since that time.

Thomas A. Edison will take his work with him when he goes to Florida for a vacation. That may do for Mr. Edison, but it would not be a good thing for the average man, who does well to leave his work at home when he takes a vacation.

The Mormons are reported to be especially busy in England now, endeavoring to interest soldiers' widows in their brand of religion. Thus again is established the truth of the claim that war "makes business."

CURRENT OPINION

Americans Want Good Railroads and Are Willing to Pay for Them.

Our railroad regulation has so far been largely corrective. To justify a forward railroad policy, regulation must be constructive.

The American people want and should have the best railroads in the world. They are willing to pay a fair price for their service, and railroad managers are equally eager to meet the public desires.

The vital need of the moment is to make our system of railroad regulation consistent, harmonious and definite. It should be a system which, while fully protecting the public interest, should stimulate railroad enterprise by making it certain that such rates will be authorized as will pay the cost of an improving standard of service and provide a fair return upon the money irreversibly devoted to supplying railroad service.—By Professor William H. Taft of Yale.

People doing business with junk dealers should know just what the market is paying for waste paper and other articles collected by the dealers. The United States Department of Commerce has issued a list of prices which the junkman should pay the housewife who generally does the business. The women should not be ready to jump at any cut rate offered by the junk man as there is a decided increase in the price. Cut this list from the paper and keep it handy for reference when you start a sale with the junkman:

Butter, 12c to 15c each.
Bones, 8c to 10c a lb.
Pooled newspapers, 25c to 30c for 100 lbs.

MANTELL INTRODUCED STYLE

First American to Wear White Vest With Dress Suit

All men who have been glad to get away from the somberness and the funeral aspect of the black vest with evening clothes are indebted to Robert H. Mantell, greatest of tragedians, and star of the William Fox photoplay "The Unfaithful Wife," now showing at the Olympia. Mr. Mantell was the first man to introduce into this country the white vest for wear with evening clothes.

It was while playing in London that the greatest exponent of Shakespearean roles first observed the use of the white vest with the dress suit. The combination appealed to Mr. Mantell and upon his return to America he introduced it here. Critics frowned upon the combination at first, but the use of the white vest with evening clothes soon became so common that it is now regarded as being anything but a sartorial impropriety.

MONEY AND THE NEWSPAPERS

The report of the public service commission in regard to the illegal and improper use of money in influencing legislation refers to some cases of wrong use of newspapers. One paper reported hearings and was paid for it by the railroad and the proprietor of another received pay, as a publicity agent. When all is said and done, however, the newspaper instances of this sort were few and far between and the money expended was infinitesimal when compared to that given other agents of the corporation and no accounting demanded. Notwithstanding that the report dwells upon the newspaper end with equal force, it was the attorneys, large and small, that got the real cake-off, and in a good many cases they didn't give anything in return, either. And, by the way, lawyers make up a majority of the public service commission.—Rochester Courier.

N. H. COLLEGE NOTES

Portsmouth Boy Elected to Honor Fraternity.

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., April 4.—Two honorary fraternities represented here have just announced the names of their new members. The organizations are the Alpha Zeta, a fraternity for students of agriculture, and the other, Alpha Chi Sigma, for chemists. Only those students whose scholastic rank is of the highest in agriculture or chemistry are eligible for membership, but the societies are not bound to elect to membership all who have through scholarship rendered themselves eligible.

Last year the Alpha Zeta admitted two men and the Alpha Chi Sigma three. This year the initiates are as follows: Alpha Zeta: E. S. Johnson, Winchester, Vt.; S. W. Wentworth, Hallowell, Me.; H. P. Bachelder, East Andover, N. H.; E. Badger, Portsmouth, N. H.; Cummings, Colebrook, N. H.; Hamilton, Hanover Center, N. H.; H. Jeffers, Pike, N. H.; Sawyer, Bradford, Mass.; S. L. Stearns, Manchester, N. H.; Wadleigh, Newton, N. H.; Alpha Chi Sigma: Herman C. Fogg of Concord; Elmer N. Saunders of Durham; Morton B. Lane of Ashburham, Mass.; Harry C. Atkins of Franklin.

The faculty has just decided upon the college calendar for next year. The first semester will begin September 13, and the year will close June 13. The mid-semester recess has been abolished, and the one-week course in agriculture which was given in this recess has been assigned to the home-spring enlarged Christmas recess. The spring vacation has also been increased in twelve days and the examination periods have been increased in length.

The second in the series of three debates which is being held by members of the Agricultural club was given last night, and A. B. Smith of Hudson, A. B. Morgan of Durham, and M. H. Benson of Lebanon were winners. They supported the affirmative of the question: Resolved: That sheep raising in New Hampshire is more profitable than dairying. The debaters are being scored as individuals, and the names of the three who leave the highest scores at the end of the series will be engraved on a silver cup given the club by the Alpha Zeta, an honorary agricultural fraternity.

FOLLOWING THE LEAD OF THE COMMISSION PLAN

By H. S. GILBERTSON

Executive Secretary, National Short Ballot Organization

IV. Getting Administrators Who Know How.

In the last article we pointed out that city administration under the commission plan was in great danger at times of heading in five different directions at once—one direction for each commissioner. It is also weak at another point: the personnel which does the actual work of management and operation. It comes about in this way:

The five men who are chosen to the commission are supposed to represent the general wishes of the people who elected them, and they usually do. And that is about enough for any officer to do. But the commission plan insists also that each member shall take care of one of the administrative departments. He is not expected to be a technical expert—exactly, but he is presumed to be able to handle the general supervision of financial operations, or of public works or of public safety. One can readily see how difficult and uncertain would be the hope of securing five men, each of whom would ideally represent the people as a whole or some large part of it, and would also have just the qualifications to administer a special department. Good administrators are not always, or perhaps often, good vote getters.

And on the other hand it is not possible to hold men responsible for what they do not know. One cannot make a competent commissioner of finance out of a barber by simply paying him a salary and holding a club over his head.

The commission-manager plan has remedied this shortcoming by furnishing the conditions under which trained executives may be employed. The charter of nearly every city which operates under this system provides specifically that the city manager need not be a resident of the city at the time of his appointment. What happens? In one city after another the experience has been the same. The elected commissioner or council has been keenly aware that the people are looking to them as a body to render a good account of themselves, to keep expenses down and yet take care of needed improvements.

val and is seeking such information from the department at Washington.

To New York Yard and Boston. Sixty thousand pounds of scrap brass and copper products of the yard were shipped to the New York yard today for the supply department. Another big shipment of bent fittings was sent to the Boston yard.

Back From Leave. Paymaster G. M. Adeo, head of the accounting department has returned today from a month's leave of absence.

No Date Set. Owing to the variety of work proposed on the Washington, the department is unable to set a date for completion of the same.

Acting as Orderly. Corporal Strong of the barracks marine guard has been assigned to temporary duty as commandant's orderly.

Calling Them From Boston. The board of labor, employment made a requisition on the Charlestown yard today for two boat builders.

BOSTON & MAINE REORGANIZATION.

New Haven to Subscribe—Reorganization Plan Being Perfected—Hampden Settlement.

Boston, April 4.—Inquiries regarding what will happen as to Boston & Maine reorganization options, so far as the majority owner in that railroad is concerned, are referred to its federal trustees by President Elliott of the New Haven. While any stock surrendered in lieu of a cash subscription under the reorganization plan would presumably go to the underwriters, the New Haven, according to one of the trustees, will without doubt subscribe to the proposed new preferred stock issue by the Boston and Maine.

A tentative draft of the detailed reorganization plan has been drawn up. Bankers and lawyers are hard at work on it. One unsettled point relates to stock of the Boston & Maine to be exchanged for the Hampden. Under the Massachusetts bank law, the savings banks and trust companies can take Boston & Maine in exchange for their Hampden notes.

Proxies from over 80,000 common shares of the minority stock of the Boston & Maine have in late been secured by those favorable to the reorganization. Many of these proxies revoke others previously given to the minority stockholders "protective association."

Success of the latter in securing a 145-to-74 vote in the Massachusetts House on Monday to substitute for an adverse committee report, a bill to repeal the reorganization act was a genuine surprise. So far as indicating a repeal of the reorganization legisla-

It is a big order and the councilmen are in no mood to pick out for their executive agent one whose chief claim on the position is his pull with "the boys." In order to keep clear of any such entanglement, and to secure the ablest men possible, Dayton, Springfield, Cadillac, Sandusky, Niagara Falls, Newburgh and other cities have deliberately gone out of the city and selected the most capable men available. Dayton called the city engineer of Cincinnati, Newburgh took the park superintendent of Cleveland.

More interesting than this is the fact that these cities are eagerly seeking the services of men who have actually been city managers. Niagara Falls hired the city manager of Cadillac, Mich. The manager of Springfield, Ohio, was formerly in a similar position at Staunton, Va. City Manager White of Dayton has released two of his assistants to be city managers of Jackson, Mich., and St. Augustine, Fla. These men naturally look forward as they may with great assurance, to an almost unlimited opportunity for advancement in which the compensation already runs as high as $12,500 a year, the salary of Dayton's manager.

The management of cities thus already holds out a very distinct promise of becoming a real profession. German success in municipal administration is due very largely to its trained executives who go from city to city with steadily increasing compensation honor and prestige.

But why only city managers? Why not county managers. This idea has already been suggested in proposed legislation in several states. Why not state managers? This is an idea advanced by Mr. Uren, the Oregon politician.

The idea of expert public service taken in United States postmasters, marshals and revenue officers who may some day be promoted from city to city as they grow in proficiency, instead of being thrown out of office at what may be the moment of their greatest usefulness, to make way for a "deserving" member of one of the other of the political parties.

tion, however, Monday's vote is believed to be merely a flash in the pan.

Some very erroneous accounting figures have been put forth in connection with the arguments against the reorganization. $1,000,000 profits in the last six months have been claimed for the road among those working with the protective association. Instead, estimating March earnings liberally, the official reports for six months to April 1 will not show much over $1,000,000 surplus after charges.

WILL SEND MORE TRUCKS

Additional Machines Will Carry Supplies to Army in Mexico.

(Special to The Herald.) Washington, April 5.—Indications that the war department will not depend upon the use of the Mexican Northwestern railway to transport the supplies to the American troops hunting Villa were given by Secretary of War Baker today. He asserted that more supplies could be sent by motor truck than by railroad. He said this was due to the poor condition of the railroad. Secretary Baker announced that four additional companies of auto trucks of 21 each would be immediately sent to the border as well as two tank trucks for the transportation of gasoline. This makes a total of 272 trucks ordered and in operation since the chase for Villa started. Officials here are confident that this force of trucks can transport sufficient supplies for the army without serious difficulty.

GUARANTEED CHICKS.

It's not the number of chicks you hatch that count but the number that live. Careful mulling of my breeding pens, the proper selection of eggs, a thorough knowledge of the art of incubation combined with all modern facilities in hatching have made possible the following:

I guarantee every chick to live and will replace all lost during the "critical period."

CARS CRASH AT SALISBURY

Accident Occurred on Curve When a Car Ran Into One Preceding It Which Had Jumped the Track

A serious accident on the Smithtown branch of the Massachusetts Northeastern Street railroad, in Salisbury, was narrowly averted on Tuesday morning. When a trolley car that was second in a string of four cars, crashed into the one that was leading and which had been derailed. Both cars were loaded with people on their way to work in Newburyport, who were thrown about by the force of the collision. The cars were due to reach Newburyport at 7 o'clock.

For a few minutes there was much excitement as it was feared that some might have been seriously injured. It was soon found, however, that injuries were few. The only one who needed the services of a physician was Mrs. Annie Brown of South Scituate, who was attended by Dr. J. P. Spaulding of Salisbury, after she had been carried to her home. One woman fainted and one or two men were slightly cut by the flying glass, all, however, being able to continue on to their work.

The accident happened when the leading car which was in charge of Motorman Vernon Donaldson and Conductor James Pettigall, jumped the track at the curve about a mile from Salisbury Station, due to a spreading of the rails. It plowed along the ground a short distance, when it was struck by the following car in charge of Motorman H. S. Lay and Conductor H. C. Porter and pushed further ahead.

There was a breaking of glass and a splintering of wood that was startling to say the least. The front vestibule of the second car was partially demolished and the controller box bent over. The motorman who had been making strenuous efforts to stop his car, jumped back, just in time to escape injury. It is considered very fortunate that there were no passengers in the vestibule, for had there been, somebody would have been seriously injured, perhaps killed.

The third and fourth car were stopped in time to prevent complicating matters.

Foreman Burbank at the Salisbury barn was notified of the accident by telephone and relief cars were sent over, one of them an open car, so that passengers were taken to Newburyport without much loss of time. Wrecking material was taken over to the scene of the accident on a snow-plow. Foreman Burbank going along with a gang of men and the derailed cars were hauled back on the rails, the work being expeditiously performed.

A construction crew was summoned from Merrimack, the sleepers uncovered and the rails respiked to gauge. Apparently the track which had a good foundation was in excellent condition, the rails being rodged as a precaution against the kind of accident that happened.

While repairs were being made passengers on regular cars were transferred.

The accident is said to have been due to the action of the motorman of the second car in following too closely the car that was ahead. Responsibility will be determined by an investigation on the part of the railway management. It is said that cars are expected to maintain an interval of about 1000 feet.

The damaged cars were sent to Haverhill under their own power.

The latest possible date for Easter is April 25, and the earliest March 22, though it rarely occurs at such an early date—only once during the 19th century, in 1818 and it will not happen during the present century.

Urges everyone to drink glass of hot water before breakfast.

Just as coal when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material, in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left over waste, toxins and poisonous like poisons are sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before drinking breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember, inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

Filene's
BOSTON

This is The Filene Store

This entire building from sub-basement to roof is occupied by merchandise and service departments owned and managed by Wm. Filene's Sons Company

PUT Filene's near the top of your list of things to see when you come to Boston. Make this store your headquarters. The welcoming latch string is always out.

The Filene Store is the natural center of things in Boston. It stands at the main cross roads where Washington Street, straight from the North Station, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine, is intersected by Summer Street—the highway from South Station, Cape Cod and westward.

Nearly all street railways in Boston lead to Filene's. Or you can come to our underground doors on any subway, entering the store dry-shod and umbrella-less in any weather.

If Filene's is your rallying-point, nearly everything worth while in old historic Boston is within easy walking distance. The theaters are close by; the State House, looking over Boston Common, but two blocks away.

WITHIN the store itself—

First of all, Filene's is interesting because of the things sold here and the way, they are sold. More folks buy their clothes at Filene's probably than in any other store in America.

This store specializes in things to wear for women, children and men. It is a store of Specialty Shops. Each kind of dress, suit, hat, hosiery, underclothing, gloves, shoes, and so on has its own shop in which are people who have specialized on their one particular detail of apparel. The Filene expert buyers are assisted by the Filene Office in Paris with its clever fashion reporters. Filene stocks are very large and cater as carefully to people of moderate means as to those who have more money to spend. Filene fashions are quite notable for their freshness, newness and correctness.

The Filene Specialty Shops are arranged along charming indoor streets with show windows and signboards. Inside these shops you find seclusion, quiet, time to look and think.

BESIDES the things you expect to find in a big store, Filene's has many surprises for you. The Restaurant on the Eighth Floor is a place of delight. Beautiful decorations, flowers, singing birds, music, really good food and new ideas in service. There is a separate restaurant where men may smoke.

Perhaps you have heard of the Service Balcony where you may register appointments, meet your friends, telephone, send telegrams, cablegrams or wireless messages, consult timetables, order theater, railroad or steamship tickets.

There is a white barber shop for men—no tips whatever—and another that specializes on cutting children's hair. For women there are hairdressing and manicuring rooms and bath.

When you are tired, there is a spacious rest room with inviting easy chairs. Would you write to the folks at home, there are desks and ink and paper, and a post-office to mail your letters.

You see, Filene's is planned to be not only a very special kind of a store, but a store home for its friends. Over one of its doorways is written the old proverb, "The chief ornament of a house is the friends who frequent it."

COME to Filene's. You will find friendliness, helpfulness, service. In the meantime we have an interesting book we should like to mail you if you will send us your name and address.

JUNK DEALERS CLEANING UP BECAUSE OF WAR

The European War has been the means of the great many in this country suddenly becoming rich through war contracts. It is now learned that one more class of men are suddenly reaping small fortunes through the European struggles, the junk men. Respect for the old fellow who travels through the streets yelling "rags and old iron" is commensurate with the disclosure that the price of junk has jumped from six cents a pound to thirteen cents and it is likely to go a great deal higher.

Since the new city council was sworn into office there has been a large number of applications for licenses applied for, as first and second class junk men. In years past the men holding these licenses have fought against the granting of more as there was hardly a living in the game for the many already in the business. But at the present time this is all changed, and the men who are now in the business are putting up little or no opposition to the granting of additional licenses for the buying or selling of old iron. One of the oldest junk dealers in the city was talking a few days ago about the situation, and said that at present there was enough profit in the sale of junk, if bought at the prices offered to allow almost any number of men to engage in the business and make a good thing out of it.

The price of old paper is also raising

If you are suffering with serious lung trouble, it will pay to fully investigate Eckman's Alternative, a remedy which has caused many recoveries. One following is a true story: "Gentlemen:—In the winter of 1903 I had an attack of grippe, followed by pneumonia, and later by lung trouble. In the winter of 1904 I had a cough, night sweats, fever and rapid pulse, and a feeling of suffocation. I had many hemorrhages, at one time three in three successive days. These physical attacks were so severe that I was unable to work, and I was advised by a friend to try Eckman's Alternative. I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well." stendity and at the last quotations 25 cents a hundred pounds was being paid for this material when a short time ago 30 cents was considered an excellent price. Men who are in a position to know say that the offer of 40 cents is not unlikely by the end of the present month.

Store keepers and others are taking advantage of these figures and the majority of them are baling all of their waste paper and many are holding it for the expected rise. Of course there is another side of the story and that is the advanced prices of the newly manufactured product. Paper and string sold to the stores has advanced a great deal. String, which until lately retailed by the stationery stores for 5 cents a ball now costs the dealer 5 cents. Paper has also risen so that the dealer must demand a higher price from his customer.

The supply of white wrapping paper used in the drug stores and others has reached an almost unknown price owing to the lack of knowledge of the bleaching processes and unless some method is soon discovered in this country these stores will be obliged to use some substitute color or else fall back on the unbleached yellow. But in the meantime the junk and rag dealer is making his while the going is good.

BOSTON LETTER

Reports that are coming into the Fish and Game Commission are that the trout season which opened Saturday is a very successful one. Some of the streams of the state are slightly swollen and others may not be in the best of condition for trout, but if the fish stories emanating from the western part of the state, from Winchester way, and from the Cape, are to be accepted, the early fishermen is hooking the trout all right. The reports indicate that the fishing is fully up to the average for the opening of the season, if not a little bit better than the average. Later in the season the fly will come into his own, but generally speaking the ancient angler worm is more than holding his former prestige as bait during the early days of the season. When the season is more advanced and the streams back up to their normal flow, the fly will then become more generally used. With the clearing of the Maine lakes in three to four weeks will come the big season for trout fishing in these parts. The registration around the headwaters of the streams and brooks in this state combined with intelligent care in the propagation of trout, will bring back ideal trout fishing in a few days to come, according to experts. There are over 3000 trout brooks in this state which are now claiming the attention of the Fish and Game Commission in its efforts to replenish them and once more make them the alluring haunts of the fishermen.

Governor Samuel W. McCall and his entire staff have accepted an invitation to open the big French bazaar at Horticultural hall, Wednesday evening of next week, inaugurating a four days' fair which promises to offer the unusual and interesting features throughout the remainder of the week. On the opening night there will be a dinner concert, and address by the governor and a grand ball. A fashion show, flower display and jewelry and French novelty exhibit will be among the main features of the bazaar presented under the direction of prominent society people of Boston with young ladies of the Vincent club and Sewing circle as assistants. The proceeds from the bazaar will be sent to the president of France to be used in caring for the orphans of the war and in assisting wounded soldiers of France to learn new trades which may make them self-supporting.

CHILE HELPING TO SOLVE THE DYE PROBLEM

Santiago, Chile, April 4.—Chile continues the work of retooling itself to the economic situation caused by the war. New and important industries are being organized which produce many articles formerly brought from Europe.

Special attention is now being given to the question of dyes, because the German supplies have been cut off. A technical commission headed by Prof. Belisario Diaz Caza has just returned from districts near the Argentine frontier with a quantity of new data concerning the traditional Aricaean dyeing methods. Some of the first samples of wools dyed with materials obtained from various trees which are abundant in the south of Chile present a very handsome appearance.

The dyestuff enterprise is said to be assured of adequate capital, and it is promised that it soon will be producing in commercial quantities.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! 25 CENT BOTTLE STOPS DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Your hair appears glossy, abundant, wavy and beautiful.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and buoyant and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

LAMP EXPLODED SETTING BED AFIRE.

About 2:00 o'clock Tuesday morning Officers Kelly and Philbrick detected the odor of smoke on Market street and an investigation showed that the smoke was coming from a house near the corner of Hanover and Market streets. The fire was confined to the bed and bed clothes of one of the roomers living there, the lamp, which was standing on a table beside the bed in which he was lying reading, having exploded. The burning bedding was carried out into the yard and no other damage resulted.
